GEOLOGICAL SURVEYS.

PAST AND PRESENT WORK OF THE DEPARTMENT--RESULTS.

Map Making on a Large Scale--A Preliminary Picture, Vividly Painted, of the Time Before Human Life--The Best as Washington--National.

WASHINGTON, July 1.--The coming fiscal year's work of the geological survey has been mapped out by Maj. Powell and the plans have received the approval of Secretary Lamm. Topographical parties will continue the work already begun in Montana, New Mexico, Arizona, and Arkansas. They have been invited by the state authorities, which co-operate with the government to the extent of defraying one-half the expense of the survey. It is expected that the work in these states will be completed within two years.

The mapped areas of the coal and iron bearing regions of the east will be considerably enlarged. These are in number, namely, the Appalachian district, extending from Maryland to Georgia and Alabama; portions of Missouri, Kansas and Arkansas; and a portion of Texas. Geographical surveys will also be continued in Arizona, New Mexico, California, Oregon, Montana and Idaho and in the Yellowstone Park. Several astronomical parties will also be sent out to establish starting points for the new surveys to be begun next year.

The work of the map makers, while serving the many important ends, state and municipal, of the most exact geographical surveys upon a large scale, is, so far as the government is concerned, merely designed to lay the necessary foundation for the studies of the scientists of the institution. The early functions of the geological survey and of the organizations which a few years ago were merged into it, were limited to the survey and study of the public domain, and of the 600,000 square miles--about one-fifth of the area of the Union--already covered by the surveyors and geologists. 600,000 is west of the one hundredth meridian. This region has proved a rare school of sciences, the physical conditions having been such as to preserve unchanged the earliest rock forms, so that the history of the globe far back toward its genesis may be read from the mountain sides as from an open book.

Much valuable work has already been done by state geologists and others and the plans of the geological survey contemplate the utilization of such of the results as may be found available. This work has, however, been done in detached localities and usually without the co-operations of the map maker. It, therefore, not only lacks the topographical connection which is essential to the purposes of the government, but necessarily falls in respect to the larger problems of geology, which can be solved only by operations which are not confined by state lines.

The picture in outline of the young continent in quaternary times, just before the advent of human life, into which, as one of a series, the gentlemen of the department are now painting the details, has not yet familiar features. The great mountain systems were already upraised and were really more rugged and higher than now. The Southern sea, now the Gulf of Mexico, had possession of an immense strip of the lower country and of the great valley and the Atlantic coast. The Pacific slope was a region of deep gulches. The great basin was an inland ocean, or rather two great inland seas were found within it, of one of which the Great Salt Lake is a petty remnant. The region and that to the south, now so sterile and dry, was then one of great humidity, and where not covered with water was very fertile. In the west extended over the northern portion of the eastern and middle country, covering the great lacustrine bordering regions of the south, for hundreds of miles. Continuing moving southward, this sheet deposited its cargoes of detritus, century after century, forming the sub-soils of what are now the Eastern, Middle and Northwestern states, and heaped up terminal moraines, still distinctly traceable as the great New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Iowa and thence northward along the present line of the Missouri through Dakota and up into the British possessions. Great tongues of ice shot off from this sheet far to the southward, while an inland region containing much of the present state of Wisconsin remained bare. There were, in fact, two great ice periods, with an intervening season longer than the time which has elapsed since the disappearance of the last sheet, and during the interval forests of large conifers covered the face of the earth. Long islands, which were created by glacial deposits, marked the southeastern limit of the sheet. The climatic condition of the country south of the great ice belt was much the same as the present, and the flora was similar, though coniferous growths were proportionately much more abundant.

Through the forests along the borders of the ice sheet roamed strange animals, among which were the huge, hairy manotian elephants, the horse, a smaller animal than his relative of to-day, having well formed hoofs, but still bearing in rudimentary form one or two of the toes of his primate ancestor; the great bison, two or three times larger than his descendant of to-day; the pig, more nearly resembling the peccary of South America than the familiar hog of our country, and other creatures curiously related to the modern camel and rhinoceros.

Then came man, but his early footprints are so few and indistinct to reveal within a few thousand years just when he came, while science and how he came have no counter-vent to guess.

General Grant.

MOUNT McNEER, N. Y., July 1.--There was no special change in Grant's condition. The night was one of broken rest, though not of pain. Mucous accumulated frequently in his throat, and whenever that happened the effort to remove it awakened him. The physician found him looking well. His face had a fresh color. To judge from his appearance he had been in the hospital for some time, but in all respects, yet it was not to the doctor no more than that the system had been relieved of darning pains that formerly pinched his features, and not that any measure of vitality had been regained. It is cloudy and the temperature is 55 degrees.

J. B. McGee.

WASHINGTON, July 1.--The appointment of J. B. McGee, for many years an out-looker in the customs division of the treasury and now assistant acting chief, will be announced soon as chief of the division, vice James. The appointment is on strictly eliminative reform principles, and generally commended.

Inspector of Steam Vessels.

WASHINGTON, July 1.--W. D. Robinson has been appointed supervising inspector of steam vessels for the Ninth district.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

There now seems slim hopes for Louis J. White's Life.

WINNIPEG, July 1.--An important decision will affect the trial of the Manitoban who will affect the trial. The Dominion act of 1884, which gave the Manitoban court the sentence of a stipendiary magistrate in the Northwest territories.

Unlike the procedure in all other courts of justice in Canada, there can be no grand jury in the territories. A man named Connor was tried for murder at Regina before a stipendiary magistrate and a jury of six as the law provides, the bill being returned by a grand jury. He was convicted and sentenced to death. An appeal to the Manitoba court was made to have the sentence quashed on the ground mentioned above. The court gave judgment upholding the sentence of the stipendiary magistrate and confirming the conviction of the prisoner. The bill will be compelled to abide by the decision of the magistrate who tries him at Regina.

LEGAL TECHNICALITIES

A Decision that is Interesting to Freedom Men.

JULY 1, 1885. J. Walker Hammond, a counterfeiter serving a ten years' term in the Leavenworth prison, was released on a writ of habeas corpus and taken to Springfield to appear before Judge Treat. Hammond was convicted in 1880 on an information, and sentenced to hard labor. He claims the Drummund granted a writ of habeas corpus in his case over three years, but that on account of the illness of the judge the writ was never executed.

The ground on which Hammond hopes for release is the recent decision of the United States supreme court that a writ which sub-juncts to hard labor an "infamous" must be tried by indictment by the grand jury and by information. Hammond is a shrewd old timer, well posted on the laws and legal technicalities and is very active in his assertions that he will never come back to Leavenworth.

DEATH OF C. R. MABLEY.

One of America's Greatest Merchants.

CINCINNATI, July 1.--A dispatch to Mr. J. T. Carey, of the firm of Mabley & Carey, from Detroit, Mich., announces the death of C. R. Mabley, the head of several of the largest business houses in the United States, of which is located in this city.

The name of C. R. Mabley is national, and his large business was widely and well known. He was conspicuously one of the largest advertisers in the country; was unusually kind to his employees, and his sudden and untimely death will be mourned by all. All places of business throughout the country with which Mr. Mabley was connected will be closed until after his funeral.

BRUTAL MURDER.

Upon Refusal to become His Wife He Kills Her.

HELENA, Ark., July 1.--From Mr. W. T. Simms, of Mississippi, who was in Helena, is learned that a particularly atrocious murder was committed in the Thomas Byrne plantation. Peter Carr, a negro, aged 34, and living on an adjoining plantation, some time ago became enamored of Mary Jackson, a woman, who was not, however, returned his affection. Carr went to her house and asked her to become his wife.

Upon her refusal he jerked out a revolver and fired while standing within two feet of the girl, the ball taking effect in her forehead, killing her instantly. Carr fled and up to the latest reports had not been captured.

AN IMPROVEMENT.

Reports from Seventy-Five Points in Kansas on Wheat.

TOPKA, Kan., July 1.--Reports from thirty points along the line of the Kansas Southern railroad and forty-five points along the line of the western railroad, which embrace the largest wheat-growing districts of Kansas, show a much better condition of affairs than has been heretofore reported.

From these reports it is now almost certain that Kansas will raise at least half of next year's crop of wheat, and that the yield, which is 100 per cent. better than the last reports of the state board of agriculture.

PROHIBITION CONVENTION.

The Cold Water Army's "Greatest Effort."

LEMAIR, Ind., July 1.--The leading prohibitionists are rapidly appearing on deck for the greatest convention the prohibitionists ever held in Ohio. L. K. Funk, of New York; Jay Oles, D. C. (Drugs); Professor Frost--the latter two of Ohio--and L. B. Beauchamp, of Hamilton, Ky. Mr. T. M. Phillips, of New York, is also expected. Everything looks like the nomination of Dr. Leonard for governor, and although he still declines, it is believed he will be prevailed on to take it.

Frank Long, of Clermont county, O., who has twice been acquitted of the charge of stealing a horse from Albert Weaver, and who obtained a verdict for damages against his prosecutors for confessing to stealing the animal, and implicates a prominent citizen of the county in the crime of stealing the horse. A sensation is being created by the charge that the man party is guilty of stealing a horse for which an old man named Ray is now serving a three years' sentence

GRUNTS LONG AND LOUD

CHEYENNE UPRISING ASSUMING SERIOUS PROPORTIONS.

All Reports to the Contrary Notwithstanding, There is Blood on the Face of the Moon--At the Mercy of Hot Devils. Children in School for safety.

WICHITA, Kan., July 1.--The dispatches and the statements of the department at Washington to the contrary notwithstanding, the excitement is at fever heat at Reno and Dellington, in the territory, and the attitude of the Cheyennes is very threatening. Dispatches came from some pretended friendly Indians, and their grunts of disapproval were long and loud.

Two more dispatches were received in which it is asserted that the Indians will make a desperate fight if asked to surrender their arms, which could only have been successfully done under President Arthur's order.

Previous to the appearance of grass this spring Dellington and the cantonment seemed at the mercy of 5,000 hordes, and some special says the streams are running rapidly between the agency and the fort. Few Indians are to be seen around the fort, the warriors all gathering at a point twelve miles away from the north fork.

A friendly Arapaho brings in the news that three white men freighters, were murdered near the cantonment by Cheyenne Indians. Several are riding the trails in all directions day and night. All the rivers border the border at Caldwell and the agencies rising. Food is scarce under a double row of sentinels, and no Indian is allowed inside. The cantonment is sixty miles up the river and is perfectly besieged. If an attack should be made on the last spot, there were nine companies of troops at Reno and one in Oklahoma, which had been ordered out, but before these troops could make a move two companies would have to be sent to the cantonment and two left at the agency, which would leave but six companies for the post and the field. The Indians are superbly mounted with the best weapons manufactured and have a supply of ammunition. When the Cheyenne says there is but one way and that is to disarm the Cheyennes. As to the movement of the large body of Indians, the army on the North fork has little is known, as neither the agency people nor the soldiers have felt that it would be safe to attempt to find out by recollecting with so few troops at command.

LITTLE ELK AND MEDICINE HORSE.

Two Prominent Chiefs Bringing the Children to School--No War.

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 1.--Little Elk and Medicine Horse, two prominent chiefs of the Cheyennes, arrived here in a large squad of Indian children from the Cheyenne and Arapahoe agency, Indian Territory, for the government Indian school at this place. The children will remain for some time. They were interviewed as to the rumors of an Indian outbreak among the Cheyennes and they have been charged to report for the reports; that the Indians are having one of the most successful dances they ever had, their women for the first time participating; that they on the whole are contented.

They say the new agent, Dyer, is unpopular, and has been spreading rumors. Their greatest grievance is the allowing by congress last winter of a bill for $40,000 for cattle and to have killed by them, which was unjust, and that their young men sometimes do kill cattle, but that the cattlemen are constantly stealing cattle from such of all of which is claimed against the Indians. They claim that, mainly owing to this, the Indians are fast tiring of the leases, and so informed the recent investigating committee.

They never had better prospects for crops. They say Dyer is merely scared by the boys, and that the city generally is interested in spreading such reports through the trade it will bring. They say Indians never send any word about the war, but to begin war, rather always get them home; that one hundred Indian teams started for Caldwell to freight for the government.

Another squad of children being now gathered at the agency to start for here July 15. They would not be here to remain if the war was kind. Regarding Little Elk's refusal to take his band's appointment they say that while he would not come after himself his vouchers were sent to him. His band counted ten men and that are popular with the whole tribe.

A MYSTERY CLEARED.

The Disappearance of Two Little Girls at East Acworth.

MARSHALL, Ill., July 1.--There is great excitement here over the supposed clearing up of the disappearance of two little school girls of Effingham county, who were supposed to have been kidnaped by gypsies about two months ago, and two and a half miles out of this place. Two boys while walking across a clover field near where the suspected band camped when here, discovered a hole in the shape of a grave four feet long, and two and one-half feet wide. The sheriff and deputy held an inquest, and discovered that a human being being buried had occupied the grave. While digging a gypsy man from a band which passed through the place, came upon the hole, and, coming suddenly over the hill upon the crowd, was seen to join the above mentioned from the hill and stepped in the hole below, as the crowd around the grave could not be seen from the wagon because of the hill.

The man who has come for some hidden motive, unwary that any one was near the spot. The remains of the children were recently buried in this hole, and afterwards when the hole was closed to rest them out were taken away. Circumstances noted by those in the vicinity of the camp, and which were held of no significance, then to show that the last children were with them. It is proven that the children were with them at the next town.

RAILROADS CONSOLIDATED.

Hocking Valley and Ohio Central Under One Management.

COLUMBUS, O., July 1.--The Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo Valley, and the Ohio Central railroads were consolidated under one management. Papers for the incorporation of the Toledo & Ohio Central Railroad company, as the new corporation will be called, were filed with the secretary of state. Capital, $3,750,000 preferred stock, and $1,600,000 common stock. Incorporators, D. B. Halsted and John S. Stanton, of Brooklyn; John E. Martin, Alexander W. Scott, and William H. Andrews.

SALARIES CUT DOWN.

Government Employees are Threatened to a Dose of Economy.

CINCINNATI, July 1.--Surveyor of Customs Caldwell, in answer to a request for authority to employ seventy-five persons in his department, received a reply from Washington that he would be allowed but forty-one, and the rest of the force would be dismissed. This is in accordance with the action of the late congressional committee on appropriations. Of course, the employees in the department will not receive the information cheerfully. The salaries hereafter will be as follows: Jerry Mulroy, as assistant collector, $1,250 per annum; chief janitor, $600; chief engineer, $375 per day; assistant engineer, $250 per day; elevator men, $150; firemen, $125; others who do not exceed $60 per month will get $50. Several women will get seventy-five cents per day.

AN ARMY OF TRAMPS.

Holding a Village, Menacing Houses and Fighting the Authorities.

SPRINGDALE, Ark., July 1.--An army of tramps made a raid on Springtown, entering many dwellings and ransacking them. Chief of Police Smith said several persons were while the officers were placing the handcuffs on the men, their few companions came out of the police station, the latter drew their revolvers and returned the fire. The tramps kept up a continuous volley and the police were driven back. The tramps closely pursued the assailants, but had gone only a short distance when he was struck on the temple with a stone, inflicting a deep wound. Three of the tramps were locked up, but the others fled to the mountains.

The machine was sent by postal authorities are investigating the case.

HOW a 15 Year Old Struck it Rich. While wandering around New Orleans, Freddy Schreuermann, a lad of fifteen years of Mobile, saw Louisiana State Lottery tickets in show windows. He said to himself, "I have no use for this dollar in my pocket," and asked if he could buy a ticket. Freddy had been attracted by the ticket in the window, and would have no other, whereupon the dealer complied with the request, giving him ticket No. 5,289. He awaited the drawing, and he was aware that he was worth $1,900. His father collected it—Mobile Register, May 22.

His chin was cut open, and his face and hands dreadfully lacerated. He was cared for by a neighboring farmer, who brought him to the home of his aunt, Mrs. N. P. Cochran, by 6 o'clock. The Famous Kissing Case. This was to decide whether a girl who had been married in fun was really the wife of the youth with whom she had stood up to perform the mock marriage. Several hundred pages of testimony were taken, and the justice spent more in having it copied than he received for his fees. The whole thing, which began in Chicago, proved at last a very serious business. It is serious business, too, when a human system runs down, down, down, until life has no charms and the grave seems a blessing. In this state of affairs take Brown's Iron Bitters and be lifted into life and hope and strength.

A Handsome Work-shop. Through the politeness of Mr. David Hechinger we were shown through the new tailoring establishment that has been lately erected for Messrs. Mr. Ball has served nearly seven years as Clerk and is a courteous gentleman, a correct official and stands far among his fellow men.

(Robertson County Democrat.) The Democrat has been the recipient of a "statement of the financial condition and general standing of Mason County," which is a little book of much information and one of rare value to the tax payer. It is prepared and issued by W. W. Ball, Mason County's model Clerk, who subjected himself to great investigation and much arduous work in preparing the same. He is now a candidate for re-election and the people of Mason should read his claims with great consideration.

THE FUTURE OF EGYPT.

M. DE LESSEPS HAS FOREBODINGS OF AN ANGLO-FRENCH WAR.

The Mystery Which Surrounds the death of Oliver Pain—France and England. Italian Cabinet—The Gallia—A Cheat—Cholera—Foreign Notes.

PARIS, July 1.—M. de Lesseps, in a conversation with a journalist, said he was convinced that unless England withdrew from Egypt the Egyptian dispute would end in an Anglo-French war. To prevent such a result he was in favor of a return to the arrangements of 1861, whereby Méhemet Ali's family were to resign perpetually as viceroys of Egypt according to Mahommedan order of succession, the eldest member of the family succeeding instead of the eldest son.

M. Waddington, at a conference with Lord Salisbury, renewed the demand that an early date be fixed for the withdrawal of the British troops from Egypt, and suggested the reconstruction of the Egyptian army of mixed Egyptians and Turkish mercenaries. He also suggested a change in the administration from the Khedive downward. Lord Salisbury limited his reply to the statement that Egyptian affairs were under consideration.

Pain's Death.

PARIS, July 1.—M. Rochefort asserts that he has advice from Egypt to the effect that Oliver Pain, after leaving Isouba on camel back, was murdered a fortnight's distance from Cairo by Arabs paid by Col. Scudmide, of the Egyptian service, to secure compromising papers brought by Pain from Khartoum. The Temps inclines to the belief that Pain was a prisoner in the hands of the English when he met his death. Rochefort is promoting a theatrical performance for the benefit of Pain's family.

France and England.

PARIS, July 1.—The Journal Des Debats thinks the Marquis de Salicrue will revive the friendship between France and England which existed under Darnley. It is of the opinion that Sir Henry Drummond Wolff's replacing Sir Evelyn Baring as consul general at Cairo will be a change for the better.

Italian Cabinet.

ROME, July 1.—Signor Depretis has formed the new ministry, he assuming the office of minister of foreign affairs and in addition to the duties of premier. Signor Tassinari has accepted the portfolio of minister of justice. Otherwise the cabinet remains as before.

The Gallia Disabled.

QUEENSTOWN, July 1.—The steamer Gallia, of the Cunard line, reported overdue, was sighted last Thursday. Her shaft was broken and she was being towed by another steamer. She is expected to reach this port during the current week.

A Cheat Hoisted.

ROME, July 1.—M. Codogno, the Brazilian minister who was recently expelled from Circos Della Caccia for cheating at cards, has resigned his membership of the jockey club and left city.

Cholera.

MADRID, July 1.—Reports from cholera stricken districts place the number of new cases at 1,202; deaths, 602.

Buffalo now claims a population of 302,518. Last census 155,156.

Officials of Kenosha, Wis., have stopped Sunday ball playing.

Five more horse thieves have been strung up in Texas, making fifteen in the last two weeks.

The death rate from cholera in Spain is appalling, though the scourge is said to be abating.

Chicago gamblers have been raided and fifty-three players taken and $2,500 worth of apparatus destroyed.

Ed Moninger has challenged El Clayton to a three-mile boat race for $300 a side. Both men are current from Zanesville, O.

Dave Jones of Chicago, and John Doyle, of San Francisco, fought five desperate rounds at Milwaukee for $200 a side, Doyle proving the winner.

S. R. Fortman, of New Orleans, slipped and fell over a cliff 350 feet high, at Talajah Falls, Ga. He was alive when found, but lived only a short time.

Three thousand troops are already in camp at Fairmount park, Philadelphia, and within the next twenty-four hours the number is expected to reach five thousand. The drill has begun.

Mr. L. W. Wilhelm, late of John Hopkins university, has been appointed special agent to prepare a report on the condition of manufacturing interests and labor matters on the Pacific slope.
